It was a hard working and bustling place but a loving and joyous one that kindergarten by Silver Street where I was working. I grew to know all my eighty charges for their fusses, their foibles, their tantrums, and their trilling laughter. Then one day I was surprised to have someone knocking for admittance. It makes a heaven-wide difference whether the soul of the child is regarded as a piece of blank paper to be written upon or as a living power to be quickened by sympathy to be educated by truth. It had been a long wearisome day at the Free Kindergarten and I was alone in the silent deserted room. Gone were all the little heads, yellow and black, curly and smooth, the dancing, restless, curious eyes, the too mischievous, naughty, eager hands, and noisy feet, the merry voices that had made the great room human but now left it quiet and empty. Eighty pairs of tiny boots had clattered down the stairs, eighty baby woes had been relieved, eighty little torn coats pulled on with patient hands, eighty shabby little hats, not one with a strawberry mark to distinguish it from any other, had been distributed with infinite discrimination among their possessors, numberless sloppy kisses had been pressed upon a willing cheek or hand, and another day was over. No, not quite over after all.

Ruby and Ruthy Minnie E. Kenney Paull,1917 Boot and Shoe Recorder ,1909 The Story of Patsy By: Kate Douglas Wiggin Kate Douglas Wiggin,2017-03-16 Kate Douglas Wiggin September 28 1856 August 24 1923 was an American educator and author of children s stories most notably the classic children s novel Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm She started the first free kindergarten in San Francisco in 1878 the Silver Street Free Kindergarten With her sister during the 1880s she also established a training school for kindergarten teachers Kate Wiggin devoted her adult life to the welfare of children in an era when children were commonly thought of as cheap labor. Early life: Kate Douglas Smith Wiggin was born in Philadelphia the daughter of lawyer Robert N Smith and of Welsh descent. Kate herself experienced a happy childhood even though it was coloured by the American Civil War and her father's death. Kate and her sister Nora were still quite young when their widowed mother moved her little family from Philadelphia to Portland Maine then three years later upon her remarriage to the little village of Hollis. There Kate matured in rural surroundings with her sister and her new baby brother Philip. From a literary point of view her childhood was most distinctive for her encounter with the novelist Charles Dickens. Her mother and another relative had gone to hear Dickens read in Portland but Wiggin aged 11 was thought to be too young to warrant an expensive ticket. The following day however she found herself on the same train as Dickens and engaged him in a lively conversation for the course of the journey an experience which she later detailed in a short memoir A Child's Journey with Dickens 1912. Her education was spotty consisting of a short stint at a dame school some home schooling under the capable slightly impatient somewhat sporadic instruction of Albion Bradbury her stepfather a brief spell at the district school a year as a boarder at the Gorham Female Seminary a winter term at Morison Academy in Baltimore Maryland and a few months stay at Abbot Academy in Andover Massachusetts where she graduated with the class of 1873. Although rather casual this was more education than most women received at the time. Early career: In 1873 hoping to ease Albion Bradbury's lung disease Kate's family moved to Santa Barbara California where Kate's stepfather died three years later. A kindergarten training class was opening in Los Angeles under Emma Marwedel 1818-1893 and Kate enrolled. After graduation in 1878 she headed the first free kindergarten in California on Silver Street in the slums of San Francisco. The children were street Arabs of the wildest type but Kate had a loving personality and dramatic flair. By 1880 she was forming a teacher training school in conjunction with the Silver Street kindergarten. In 1881 Kate married Samuel Bradley Wiggin a San Francisco lawyer. According to the customs of the time she was required to resign her teaching job. Still devoted to her school she began to raise money for it through writing first The Story of Patsy 1883 then The Birds Christmas Carol 1887. Both privately printed books were issued commercially by Houghton Mifflin in 1889 with enormous success. Jane Allen Edith Bancroft, 1918. Jane found love and fought high school level crime as she made her way on to the basketball team and grew up.
