Abstract

Since the 1970's, there is a process of restructuring urban management due to difficulties of the capitalist economy. Deindustrialization, unemployment and fiscal austerity lead governments to view the city as a business to be managed. This is what Harvey (1996) calls "urban entrepreneurship", a form of urban management in which local public authorities incorporates a business stance in attracting new forms of accumulation. In a scenario marked by the competition between cities for the attraction of new forms of capital accumulation, this "Business-State" starts to seek ways of diversifying productive activities. This article focuses on how tourism takes place in this process and thus interferes with urban dynamics. Based on empirical observations of what has happened to some of the most emblematic examples of urban entrepreneurship in Europe, the possibility that arises is that tourism, with its promise of economic development, has contributed to legitimize the actions of the entrepreneurial State.

Keywords: Tourism, urban dynamics, urban entrepreneurship.

Introduction

Historically, cities have become centers of production, exchange and politics (GLADSTONE, 1998). Being protagonists in political, economic, social and cultural life (CASTELLS & BORJA, 1996), the first cities emerged "where neolithic technique and material conditions enabled farmers to produce more than what they needed to consume" (CASTELLS, 1984, p. 92). While for Mumford (1991) there is no definition capable of expressing all its Kan Chen, Karl Frank Lagler, 1974 Opposing Power argues that perceptions of regime vulnerability and mutual dependency by opposition elites shape the building of opposition alliances. When electoral autocracies are consistently dominant, opposition parties eschew fully fledged alliances. At best they allocate only one candidate to contest against the incumbent in each subnational electoral district to avoid splitting the opposition vote. However, when multiple regime debilitating events strike within a short period of time, thus pushing an incumbent to the precipice of power, opposition elites expect victory, accepting costly compromises to build alliances and seize power. Opposing Power shows how oppositions build these alliances through case study comparisons in East and Southeast Asia between the Philippines and South Korea in the late 1980s and between Malaysia and Singapore from 1965 to 2020. Bulk Materials Handling, 1975 Vols 1 include proceedings of the 1st 3d annual seminars held in 1968-70 at the University of Pittsburgh. Computer Modeling And Simulation John Mclead, 1982. Proceedings - Annual Pittsburgh Conference on Modeling and Simulation, 1973.
