Two Roads to Dodge City Nigel Nicolson, Adam Nicolson, 1987 Two Roads to Dodge City offers a vividly fresh look at today's Americans and their ways by two gifted observers father and son This portrait of the country and its people from coast to coast is revealing understanding entertaining and full of surprises Nigel the father starts in Miami driving in easy stages with stops in small towns and large cities up the coast to Canada then down the middle of the country to New Orleans and up to his rendezvous with Adam Thanks to his frequent visits to the States and his fame as a writer he has easy access to the grand houses as well as the modest to leaders of society government business academia as well as folks in towns and roadside stops Son Adam not yet thirty but already author of several books one of which Frontiers won the 1986 Somerset Maugham Award wanders a lower road from Los Angeles through San Francisco Oregon Idaho Las Vegas Phoenix Santa Fe and Wyoming A tall unmistakably upper class Englishman he has an uncanny gift for swiftly striking up acquaintance with any kind and age of man or woman His California for example has an astonishing freshness and his experiences with the young and wild the comfy and the raunchy the settled and the nomadic are a joy to share The diversity of the Nicholsons adventures and views together with the affection argument and mutual stimulus which link them across the ever narrowing 3 000 mile gap combine to make this an unusual and exciting book      News International and phone-hacking Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2012-04-27 This report concentrates on the issue of whether witnesses have previously misled a select committee of the House of Commons over the extent and knowledge of phone hacking The Committee concludes that several individuals misled the Committee in 2009 and more recently and that the News of the World and News International corporately misled the Committee about the true nature and extent of the internal investigations they carried out into phone hacking made statements that were not fully truthful and withheld documents The companies directors including Rupert Murdoch and James Murdoch should be prepared to take responsibility for these failings The Committee reports its findings for the House of Commons to decide whether a contempt has been committed and if so what punishment should be imposed      Poetics Journal , 1986      Design , 1977      Reports of Proceedings ... Boston (Mass.). Congressional Record USA. Congress, 1899 Debates of the Senate (Union of South Africa). South Africa. Parliament. Senate, 1930 House of Commons - Committee of Public Accounts: Cabinet Office: Improving Government Procurement And The Impact Government's ICT Savings Initiatives - HC 137 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2013-09-20 Central government spent a total of around 45 billion on buying goods and services in 2011/12 including an estimated 6.9 billion on ICT. Since 2010 the government has introduced a range of procurement reforms designed to save money. These include centralising the procurement of goods and services bought by all departments such as energy and travel. All ICT spending over 5 million must be approved by the Cabinet Office and a programme to develop ICT infrastructure which can be shared across government organisations has been developed. These reforms are beginning to have an impact: the proportion of spending that goes through central contracts has increased steadily; the ICT initiatives have resulted in some savings and there are signs that departments are starting to think more intelligently about why and how they use ICT. But the accountability arrangements for centralised procurement remain a barrier: the centre manages the contracts yet departments remain liable for their own spending decisions so they are reluctant to cede authority to the centre. Management information on spending and savings is incomplete so departments do not always trust the figures on savings claimed. These gaps in accountability and data make it harder to make the case for procurement across central government and in the wider public sector to be centralised. The commitment to localism seems to be at odds with buying through central contracts and government's desire to give more government business to small firms does not appear to have changed the way large procurements are managed.

The Role of the Charity Commission and Public Benefit Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Public Administration Select Committee, 2013. This report into the implementation of the Charities Act 2006 finds the Charity Commission being asked to do too much with too little. The charitable sector is at the heart of UK society involving millions of people and 9.3 billion received in donations in 2011/2012. Around 25 new applications for charitable status are received by the Charity Commission every working day. Among the reports findings are one of the key tests set by the Charities Act 2006 for determining charitable status: the public benefit test is critically flawed. The Government should revise the statutory objectives for the Charity Commission to allow the Commission to focus its limited resources on regulating the sector. The proposal to increase the financial threshold for compulsory registration of a charity with the Charity Commission should be rejected. Charities should publish their spending on campaigning and political activity. PASC criticises the way the Charity Commission has interpreted public benefit under the Act. The Committee also considered the impact of face to face fundraising or chugging on the street or on the doorstep and warns that self regulation has failed so far to generate the level of public confidence which is essential to maintain the reputation of the charitable sector. The evidence was clear that the regulation of fundraising remains a concern for many members of the public. Two in three people have reported feeling uncomfortable as a result of the fundraising methods used by some charities. The Use
