The Politics of Sub-National Authoritarianism in Russia Cameron Ross, 2016-02-24 By the end of the 2000s Russia had become an increasingly authoritarian state which was characterised by the following features outrageously unfair and fraudulent elections the existence of weak and impotent political parties a heavily censored often self censored media weak rubber stamping legislatures at the national and sub national levels politically subordinated courts the arbitrary use of the economic powers of the state and widespread corruption However this picture would be incomplete without taking into account the sub national dimension of these subversive institutions and practices across the regions of the Russian Federation After the collapse of the Soviet Union sub national political developments in Russia became highly diversified and the political map of Russia s regions became multi faceted The period of 2000s demonstrated a drive on the part of the Kremlin to re centralise politics and governance to the demise of newly emerging democratic institutions at both the national and sub national levels Yet federalism and regionalism remain key elements of the research agenda in Russian politics and the overall political map of Russia s regions is far from being monotonic Rather it is similar to a complex multi piece puzzle which can only be put together through skilful crafting The 12 chapters in this collection are oriented towards the generation of more theoretically and empirically solid inferences and provide critical evaluations of the multiple deficiencies in Russia s sub national authoritarianism including principal agent problems in the relations between the layers of the power vertical unresolved issues of regime legitimacy that have resulted from manipulative electoral practices and the inefficient performance of regional and local governments The volume brings together a team of international experts on Russian regional politics which includes top scholars from Britain Canada Russia and the USA The Kremlin's Nuclear Sword Steven J. Zaloga, 2014-05-27 The prevailing Western view of Russia's Cold War strategic nuclear weapons policy is that it resulted from a two part interplay between the leaders of the Communist Party and the military Steven J Zaloga has found that a third contributor the Russian defense industry also played a vital role Drawing from elusive Russian source material and interviews with many proud Russian and Ukrainian engineers Zaloga presents a definitive account of Russia's strategic forces who built them and why The book is the first in English to refer to the weapons by their actual Soviet names providing the bedrock for future works Helpful appendices list U S NATO and other designations and the illustrations provide clear visual references The Republics and Regions of the Russian Federation Robert W.
