Often public sector managers and leaders lack advanced relevant and dynamic skills and knowledge to deal with human resource challenges within the New Public Management environment. It is critical for the public sector to transform its human resource management to suit twenty first century needs. Effective human resource management in the public sector leads to economic growth and therefore the achievement of the Zimbabwe National Vision 2030. Therefore this book serves as a guide for public sector managers and those directly or indirectly involved in human capital management. It provides in depth knowledge and guidance in effective human capital management within the context of the public sector in Zimbabwe.

Startup Cities Peter S. Cohan, 2018-02-07. This book offers a comprehensive model for explaining the success and failure of cities in nurturing startups. It presents detailed case studies of how participants in that model help or hinder startup activity and shows how to apply these lessons to boost local startup activity. Startup Cities explains the factors that determine local startup success based on a detailed comparison of regional startup cities, pairing the most successful and less successful cities within regions along with insights and implications from case studies of each of the model's elements. The book compares local city pairs, highlighting factors that distinguish successful from less successful cities and presents implications for stakeholders that arise from these principles. Peter Cohan is a lecturer of Strategy at Babson College and one of the world's leading authorities on regional startup ecosystems. Starting in 2012 he created and led Startup Strategy courses that explore four regional startup ecosystems: Hong Kong, Singapore, Israel, Paris, and Spain, Portugal. These courses are based on an original framework for evaluating why a few cities host most startup creation and the rest fail to do so. In running these courses, Peter has built a network of local policymakers, investors, entrepreneurs, and professors from which he draws practical insights for what distinguishes successful Startup Commons from their peers. The book provides vital benefits to these stakeholders. What You'll Learn: Local policymakers will know how to build a local team to set objectives for their local Startup Commons and develop a comprehensive strategy to realize those goals. Entrepreneurs will know how to choose where to locate their startups based on factors such as the supply and quality of talent from chief marketing and technology officers to coders and sales people, quality of life, access to capital, customers, and mentors, and costs such as salary and real estate expense. University administrators and faculty will know how to take research out of their labs and house it in companies that can commercialize that research, create academic programs that will encourage more entrepreneurship among their students, and connect with local policymakers and capital providers to spur local startup activity. Capital providers will know how to scout out emerging startup cities where they can get access to the best investment opportunities at more favorable valuations and have greater influence on how the local startup scene evolves. Who This Book Is For: All key startup stakeholders including local policymakers, mayors, directors of economic development, treasurers, controllers, presidents of regional chamber of commerce, entrepreneurs, CEOs, chief marketing officers, chief financial officers, chief HR officers, chief technology officers, universities, presidents, deans of faculty, provosts, professors of finance, management, and entrepreneurship.
