Dorothy J. Wang

Trying To Make Sense:

Thinking Its Presence Dorothy J. Wang, 2013-12-04 When will American poetry and poetics stop viewing poetry by racialized persons as a secondary subject within the field Dorothy J Wang makes an impassioned case that now is the time Thinking Its Presence calls for a radical rethinking of how American poetry is being read today offering its own reading as a roadmap While focusing on the work of five contemporary Asian American poets Li Young Lee Marilyn Chin John Yau Mei mei Berssenbrugge and Pamela Lu the book contends that aesthetic forms are inseparable from social political and historical contexts in the writing and reception of all poetry Wang questions the tendency of critics and academics alike to occlude the role of race in their discussions of the American poetic tradition and casts a harsh light on the double standard they apply in reading poems by poets who are racial minorities This is the first sustained study of the formal properties in Asian American poetry across a range of aesthetic styles from traditional lyric to avant garde Wang argues with conviction that critics should read minority poetry with the same attention to language and form that they bring to their analyses of writing by white poets

The Profile of Imagining Robert Hopkins, 2024-03-20 What is sensory imagining and what role does it play in our lives How does visualizing a castle running through a tune in one s head or imagining the taste of fish ice cream relate to perceiving such things or to remembering them What are the connections between imagining and agency and how does it relate to emotion and other affect The Profile of Imagining offers a theory that answers these and many other questions It argues that sensory imagining involves the redeployment of resources central to perception though in a radically different context and to very different effect The result is a view that explains central features of imagining s phenomenology and functional role including its capacity to capture what it would be like to perceive its objects while acknowledging the many and striking differences between imagining and sensing Hopkins shows how the view can be extended to imagining in other forms especially the imagining of affect and uses it to argue for some surprising conclusions that imagining something is not a way to engage with its aesthetic character and that imagining provokes real feeling much less often than is usually assumed

Life without a Ground: A Praxis of Being-in-the-World Daniil Koloskov, 2024-07-18 This book argues for the pragmatist thesis of the primacy of praxis on a phenomenological basis Demonstrating the relevance of phenomenology it provides a systematic overview of the contemporary pragmatic landscape taking into account not only a family of neo pragmatic approaches but also the current pragmatic readings of phenomenology This volume offers an innovative formulation of the primacy of practice thesis based on the genetic reformulation of Heidegger s notions of disclosure Dasein and average intelligibility Das Man Investigating the dynamic interrelation among those notions the author arrives at the phenomenological conception of forms of life or average background practices and argues that a form of life is not a pragmatic condition of meaningfulness but an outcome of the dynamic process of meaning formation This text concludes that the formation of meaning has no overarching origin but sources from the bundle of disparate practical spaces and is anarchic

in nature It appeals to students and researchers working in phenomenology and philosophical anthropology

Human Traits and Their Social Significance Irwin Edman, 1920 Deals with the processes of human nature from man's inborn impulses and needs to the most complete fulfillment of these

Thought in Action Barbara Gail Montero, 2016-04-28 How does thinking affect doing There is a widely held view both in academia and in the popular press that thinking about what you are doing as you are doing it hinders performance Once you have acquired the ability to putt a golf ball play an arpeggio on the piano or parallel park reflecting on your actions leads to inaccuracies blunders and sometimes even utter paralysis that's what is widely believed Experts according to this view don't need to try to do it they just do it But is this true After exploring some of the contemporary and historical manifestations of the idea that highly accomplished skills are automatic and effortless Barbara Gail Montero develops a theory of expertise which emphasizes the role of the conscious mind in expert action She aims to dispel various myths about experts who proceed without any understanding of what guides their action For example that proverbial chicken sexer who can't explain why he makes his judgments He simply doesn't exist Montero's critical task also involves analyzing research in both philosophy and psychology that is taken to show that conscious control and explicit monitoring of one's movements impedes well practiced skills She explores a wide range of real life examples of optimal performance culled from sports the performing arts chess nursing medicine the military and elsewhere and draws from psychology neuroscience and literature to offer a refreshing and persuasive view of expertise according to which expert action generally is and ought to be thoughtful effortful and reflective
