Cognitive Psychology and Information Processing R. Lachman, J. L. Lachman, E. C. Butterfield, 2015-12-22 First published in 1979 Basic research at its essence is exploration of the unknown When it is successful isolated pieces of reality are deciphered and described Most of the history of an empirical discipline consists of probes into this darkness some bold others careful and systematic Most of these efforts are initially incorrect At best they are distant approximations to a reality that may not be correctly specified for centuries How then can we describe the fragmented knowledge that characterizes a scientific discipline for most of its history A dynamic field of science is held together by its paradigm The author s think it is essential to adequate scientific education to teach paradigms and believe that there is an effective method The method emphasizes the integral nature rather than the objective correctness of a given set of consensual commitments They believe that paradigmatic content can be effectively combined with the technical research literature commonly presented in scientific texts This book represents the culmination of those beliefs Naturekind Melissa Leach, James Fairhead, 2025-10-07 A new paradigm that integrates human and nonhuman communication and culture Are language and culture uniquely human justifying an exceptionalism that sets people apart from the rest of nature New discoveries in the biological sciences have challenged this assumption finding syntax symbolism and social learning beyond the human and identifying culture as a second inheritance system across the phyla from whales to insects and plants Biologists are constrained however by the mechanistic ways communication is understood In Naturekind Melissa Leach and James Fairhead address this impasse by extending insights from structural linguistics social semiotics anthropology and Indigenous theorization into wider life integrating them with new biological findings to develop a new structural biosemiotics paradigm Leach and Fairhead argue that such a paradigm can provide a unified theory of meaning making across all of nature or naturekind allowing new theorisation about human and nonhuman communication and culture They examine people s communicative encounters with chickens horses bees bats and plants and with assemblages of living and nonliving entities forests seas soils and cities Marrying the new biology with the structural social sciences they contend provides powerful insights for living well with wider life on a shared planet and transforming political relations
