Controlling Strategic Nuclear Weapons Walter Slocumbe, 1975

Tactical Nuclear Weapons and NATO, 2012 NATO has been a nuclear alliance since its inception Nuclear weapons have served the dual purpose of being part of NATO military planning as well as being central to the Alliance's deterrence strategy For over 4 decades NATO allies sought to find conventional and nuclear forces doctrines and agreed strategies that linked the defense of Europe to that of the United States Still in light of the evolving security situation the Alliance must now consider the role and future of tactical or non strategic nuclear weapons NSNWs Two clear conclusions emerge from this analysis First in the more than 2 decades since the end of the Cold War the problem itself that is the question of what to do with weapons designed in a previous century for the possibility of a World War III against a military alliance that no longer exists is understudied both inside and outside of government Tactical weapons although less awesome than their strategic siblings carry significant security and political risks and they have not received the attention that is commensurate to their importance Second it is clear that whatever the future of these arms the status quo is unacceptable It is past the time for NATO to make more resolute decisions find a coherent strategy and formulate more definite plans about its nuclear status Consequently decisions about the role of nuclear weapons within the Alliance and the associated supporting analysis are fundamental to the future identity of NATO At the Lisbon Summit in Portugal in November 2010 the Alliance agreed to conduct the Deterrence and Defense Posture Review DDPR This effort is designed to answer these difficult questions prior to the upcoming NATO Summit in May 2012 The United States and its closest allies must define future threats and in doing so clarify NATO's identity purpose and corresponding force requirements So far NATO remains a nuclear alliance but it is increasingly hard to define what that means Publisher's website and East Europe having shaken core assumptions of U S defense policy it is time to reassess basic questions of American nuclear strategy and force requirements In a comprehensive analysis of these issues Charles Glaser argues that even before the recent easing of tension with the Soviet Union the United States should have revised its nuclear strategy rejecting deterrent threats that require the ability to destroy Soviet nuclear forces and forgoing entirely efforts to limit damage if all out nuclear war occurs Changes in the Soviet Union suggests Glaser may be best viewed as creating an opportunity to make revisions that are more than twenty years overdue Glaser s provocative work is organized in three parts The Questions behind the Questions evaluates the basic factual and theoretical disputes that underlie disagreements about U S nuclear weapons policy Alternative Nuclear Worlds compares mutual assured destruction capabilities MAD a world in which both superpowers societies are highly vulnerable to nuclear retaliation to the basic alternatives mutual perfect defenses U S superiority and nuclear disarmament Would any basic alternatives be preferable to MAD Drawing on the earlier sections of the book Decisions in MAD addresses key choices facing American decision makers Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
