collects studies with a critical education policy orientation and presents itself as a handbook of matters of public concern. The term critical does not refer to the adoption of a particular theoretical framework or methodology but rather it refers to a very specific ethos or way of relating to the present and the belief that the future should not be the repetition of the past. This implies a concern about what is happening in our societies today and what could or should be happening in the future. As a consequence, the contributors to the book rely on a general notion of public policy that takes on board processes, practices and discourses at a variety of levels in diverse governmental and non-governmental contexts and considers the relation of policy to power, to politics and to social regulation. Following the detailed introduction that aims at picturing the landscape of studies with a critical education policy orientation, the book presents readings of six policy challenges: globalization, knowledge society, lifelong learning, equality, democracy, social inclusion, accountability, control, efficiency and teacher professionalism. It seeks to contextualise these in relation to issues of current global concern at the start of the 21st century. Despite the diversity of approaches, this collection of critical education policy studies shares a concern with what could be called the public and its education and represents a snapshot of education policy research at a particular time.

Shifting Terrain Nick J. Mulé, Gloria C. Desantis, 2017-05-30. Canadian advocacy has evolved over the past few decades. A core function of the nonprofit sector, advocacy endures in an unsympathetic neoliberal landscape, one dominated by a rise in government surveillance, ongoing government funding cuts and confusion over what activities are permissible. Exploring the unpredictable and fluid nature of public policy advocacy work carried out by nonprofit organizations across Canada, The Shifting Terrain sheds light on the strictures and opportunities of this crucial aspect of the voluntary sector. Authors from diverse backgrounds, including academics, activists, practitioners and legal experts, illustrate what the shifting course of advocacy means in philosophical, theoretical, political and practical terms. Offering a critique of advocacy practices directed at the nonprofit/provincial/territorial government interface and beyond, this anthology outlines regulatory changes made by the Canada Revenue Agency, exposes the conflicted internal structures and processes of advocacy work, challenges permissible advocacy activities, presents provocative thinking about alternative ways forward and proposes recommendations for improvement. A comparative historical study and a contemporary examination, The Shifting Terrain invites readers to contemplate the implications of advocacy for public participation, the shaping of public policy and Canadian democracy.
